GEORGE S. PARKER
1863 — 1937

How The Parker Pen Co. Became the World's Largest Maker of Fountain Pens

THE YEAR IS In Janesville, Wis., George S. Parker, a young man but lately from an Iowa farm, is teaching telegraphy and demonstrates to his students a pen that carries its own ink. He is recently appointed agent for a fountain pen manufacturer.

Students order pens — not with entire satisfaction. For these pens scratch, blot.

So George S. Parker buys a file, saw, rod of hard rubber—spends his nights to improve the pens—originates a new-type feed. He replaces the pen manufacturer's feed with his own creation. Pens work better. He makes complete pens. He calls them the George S. Parker Fountain Pens. Whereat, along comes Fame and takes him by the arm.

With a capital of $1,000 supplied by W. F. Palmer, Messrs. Parker and Palmer organize The Parker Pen Company. Soon Parker Pens make appearance throughout Wisconsin. Each year they push on to new frontiers. Today, Parker Pens are famous and favored in every country on the globe.

Throughout his career, George S. Parker is obsessed with the desire to improve his product. This he does, year after year. Recognizing his genius, governments of many nations grant him numerous patents. George S. Parker died July 19, 1937. His associates of many years, under son Kenneth Parker, president since 1933, now carry on the work which he began. To them he leaves an heritage of hard-won traditions and inspired ideals.

First Mechanically Successful Sacless Pen

Comes 1932. Up to now pen makers have been seeking a practicable sacless filling mechanism that would eliminate the rubber ink sac and lever filler — thus permitting greatly increased ink capacity.

From 1855 to 1932, about 250 sacless pens are invented. Tried by numerous manufacturers, they are all discarded by leading pen makers after experience shows that they fail to stand up in actual use. For all of these earlier sacless pens contain either sliding piston pumps or "eye-dropper" air bulbs. Although some manufacturers market these pens, George S. Parker will have none of them because his researches show that they do not give satisfaction — that they are based on faulty principles.

But one day a professor at the University of Wisconsin brings to Mr. Parker an utterly new sacless filling mechanism. Unlike the earlier discredited types, this new invention contains neither piston pump nor air bulb. Based on a simple recoiling Diaphragm, its working parts are sealed in the top where ink can never touch, corrode or disable them.

George S. Parker's faith in this new creation gives the world the revolutionary Parker Vacumatic. For he takes this idea, and engineers it to perfection. And again, U. S. and foreign governments grant Parker patent protection.

Around this new filling principle, he builds a wholly new and utterly different fountain pen, so superlative in performance and so original in style that it soon becomes the largest selling pen in the world.

Started as a one-man business, The Parker Pen Company today affords employment to hundreds of skilled workers, has factories, offices and subsidiaries in numerous American and foreign cities.

On this, the 50th Anniversary year of the Company which he started in 1888, the employees of The Parker Pen Company affectionately dedicate this catalog to the memory of George S. Parker.

Parker POINT SELECTION CHART

Parker manufactures a total of 14 different styles of pen points for the Vacumatic Pen. From this wide selection it is possible to satisfy any request. However, actual sales records over many years show that 95% of all pen buyers want one of the 6 points shown below within the red border, namely extra fine, fine, and medium, in rigid or flexible.

The remaining 8 points are made for special writing purposes and are requested by only 5% of the pen buyers. The average retailer, therefore, need carry only a few of these special points in his stock as he will receive comparatively few calls for them. Any one of these points may be quickly obtained by the retailer from The Parker Pen Company.

RIGID PEN POINTS

Extra Fine Rigid	Fine Rigid	Medium Rigid	Broad Rigid	Stub Rigid	Oblique Rigid	Needlepoint Rigid
For Draftsman, Bookkeeping, Accounting	For Fine Writing	For General Writing, Manifold	These three points are for heavy uniform writing.			For sharp hair-line work only. A delicate point, unsuited for general writing.

FLEXIBLE PEN POINTS

Extra Fine Flexible	Fine Flexible	Medium Flexible	Broad Flexible	Stub Flexible	Oblique Flexible	Needlepoint Flexible
For Stenographers	For Feminine Writing	For General Writing	These three points are for heavy shaded writing.			For sharp hair-line work only. A delicate point, unsuited for general writing.

Parker Quink

We Spent $68,000 to Develop Parker Quink

The Marvelous New Writing Ink
That Makes Any Pen a Self-Cleaner

A Miracle of chemistry, Parker Quink is an entirely new and remarkable creation in writing ink!

Quink contains a secret harmless solvent—an ingredient found in no other ink—that dissolves the gum and sediment left in a pen by ordinary inks. Thus, Quink actually cleans a pen as it writes—a Parker Pen or any other!

Also Quink dries 31% faster ON PAPER than average inks due to rapid penetration—yet it resists evaporation; hence it does NOT dry in your pen. With Quink you never have to shake, scratch or fuss with your pen to get it to write.

Scientific laboratory tests show that PERMANENT-Quink in Royal Blue, Blue-Black, and Black equals or surpasses U. S. Government specifications in these 8 respects: water-resisting, non-fading, non-clogging, quick-drying, correct flowing, non-corroding, non-molding, and non-deposit forming.

PERMANENT Quink

For office use, accounting, and all permanent documents. Is as permanent as the paper—won't wash out or fade out.

WASHABLE Quink

For home and school. Washes out without a trace if spilled on hands, clothes, rugs, etc., when soap and water are promptly used.

Parker Desk Sets

FOR 1939 Parker again steps out in front with a new and original array of styles in Pen Desk Sets. They combine exquisite beauty and maximum utility and are designed to match the harmony and charm of every type of home or to meet the exacting requirements of the office worker and the busy executive.

Scintillating creations in marble, onyx, glass, chrome, and rare woods,—plain or decorated,—mounted with useful accessories such as clocks, lamps, cigarette boxes, and calendars.

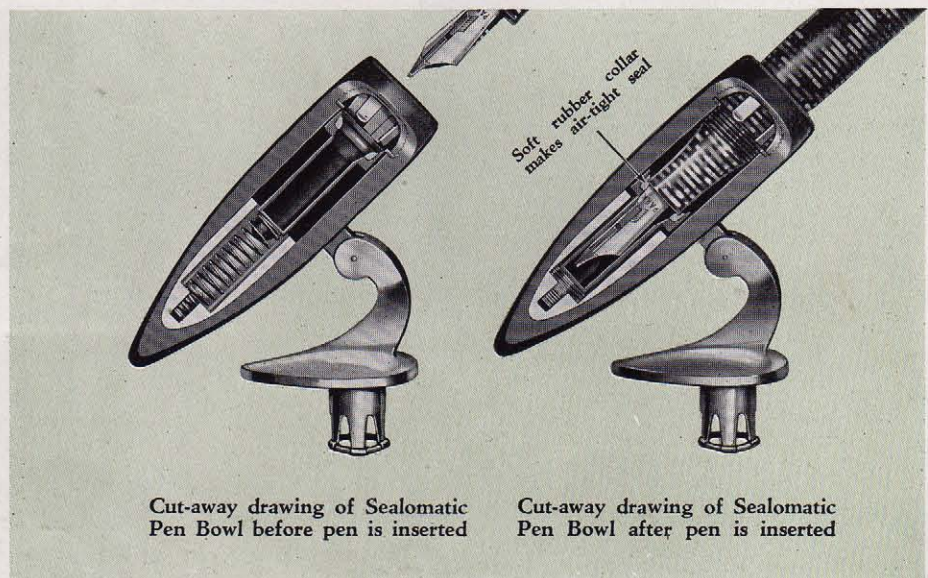

The new Desk Sets are fitted with especially designed desk pens,—either Parker's Major Vacumatic, Junior Vacumatic, Challenger or Parkette,—all restfully balanced to relieve writing tension. All pens have visible ink supply to prevent the pen running dry, and Scratch-proof Points.

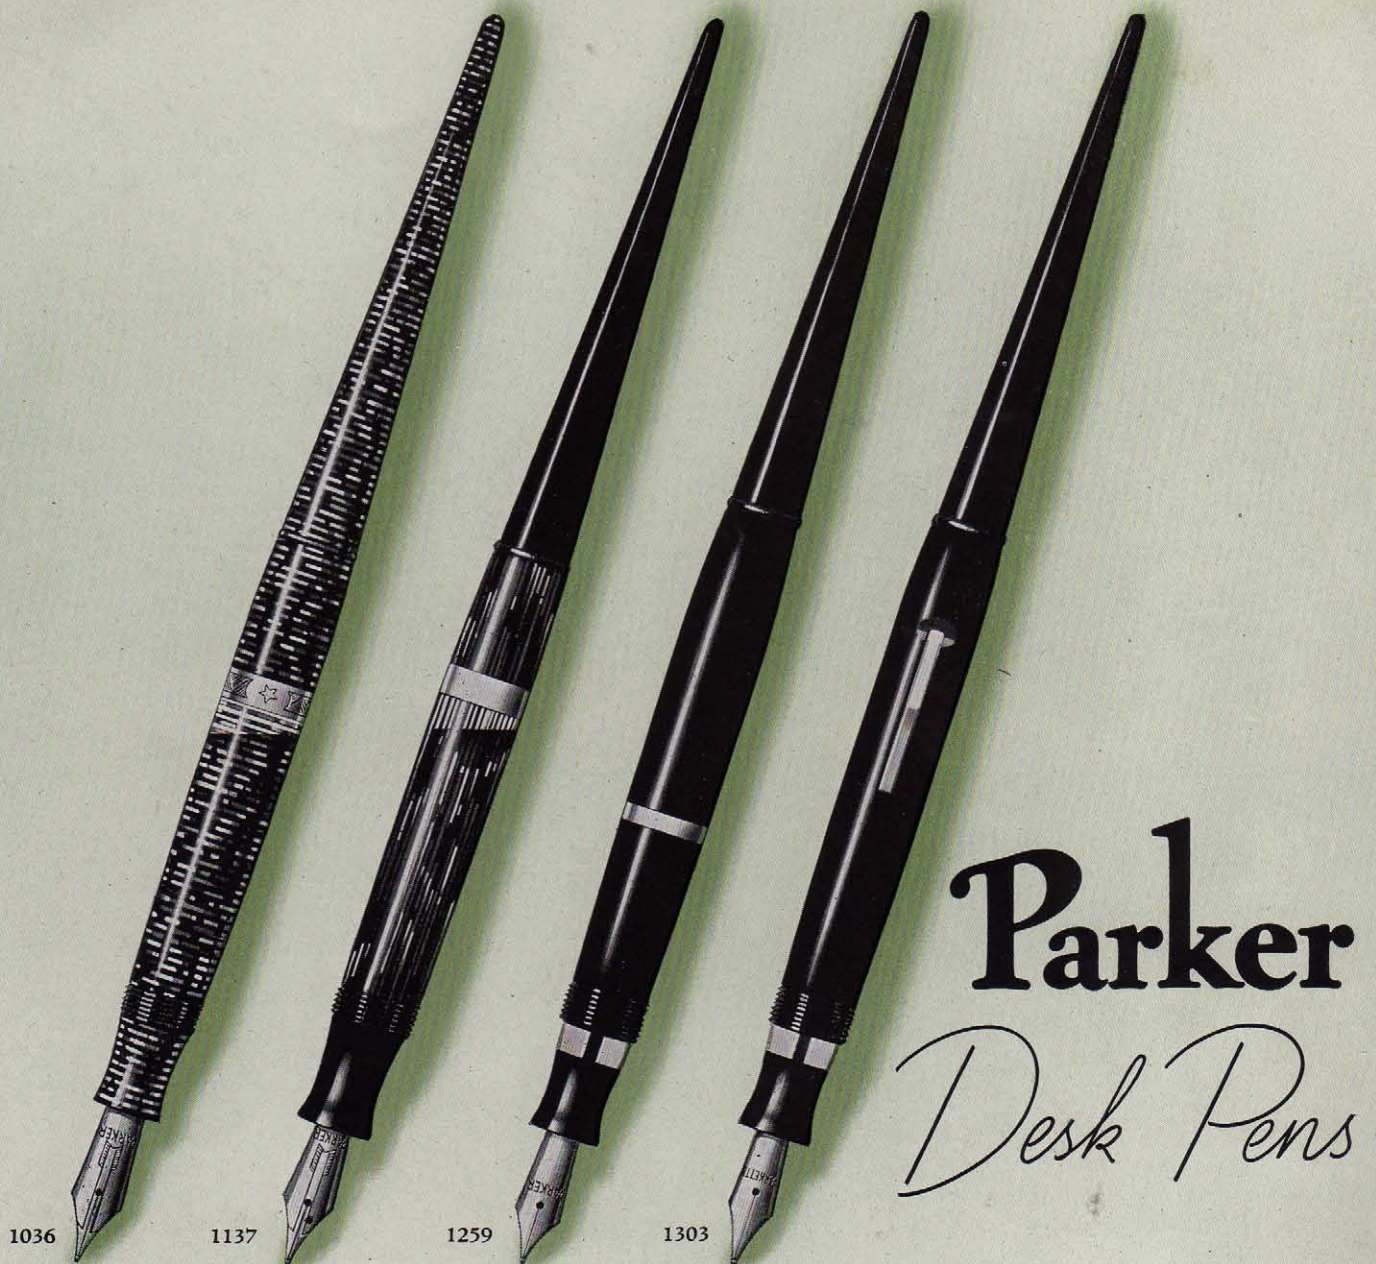

Parker offers the world the first perfected and wholly practicable Pen Desk Set,—with a scientific Sealomatic Pen Bowl and a Parker Desk Pen that's always ready to write when you are.

THE Parker SEALOMATIC PEN BOWL

There's more to the Parker Pen Desk Sets than meets the eye. Parker brings touch-writing service with the development of the Sealomatic Pen Bowl, the original and only air-tight seal. It keeps the pen moist and ready to write the instant it touches paper and thus eliminates the shortcomings of ordinary desk sets.

Within the streamlined Sealomatic bowl which holds the Pen, Parker has developed an ingenious device which automatically clasps the Pen in an air-tight seal, thus preventing the drying out of ink on the pen point. Moreover, if the pen is not properly inserted to effect a perfect seal, the retainer automatically ejects the pen. In this way it is assured that the pen will always be pushed in fully to make a perfect seal.
